

Knowledge Base

Group Bookings — 10 Articles

This knowledge base contains the articles available to Sidekick when answering advisor questions about group bookings. Articles vary in accuracy and recency—some are marked as outdated or contain errors.

CONTENTS

Article 1 — Group Bookings at Fora: Complete Guide Source of Truth

Article 2 — Getting Started with Group Bookings \(outdated\)

Article 3 — Understanding Hotel Group Contracts

Article 4 — Attrition Clauses: Best Practices \(outdated\)

Article 5 — Group Booking Minimums by Supplier Type

Article 6 — Group Payment Collection Process

Article 7 — Cruise Group Booking Types Explained

Article 8 — TC Credits and GAP Points: What Advisors Need to Know

Article 9 — Commission Structures for Group Travel \(outdated\)

Article 10 — Working with Tour Operators for Groups \(outdated\)

ARTICLE 1

Group Bookings at Fora: Complete Guide

Published: January 15, 2025

Last Updated: January 2, 2026

Status: Source of Truth

WHAT IS A GROUP BOOKING?

A group booking is when you're arranging travel for multiple people traveling together. At Fora, we define groups by the number of rooms, cabins, or travelers depending on the travel type:

- Hotels: 10+ rooms
- Cruises: 8+ staterooms
- Tours: 10+ travelers

Group bookings follow different processes than individual (FIT) bookings and typically involve contracts, deposits, and special terms.

WHY BOOK GROUPS?

Benefits for advisors:

- Higher overall commission (commission on entire group vs. individual bookings)
- Simplified logistics (one contract vs. multiple individual reservations)
- Stronger client relationships (handling complex needs)
- Economies of scale

Benefits for clients:

- Group rates (often lower than individual rates)
 - Room/cabin blocks held together
 - Customized experiences
 - Dedicated support from suppliers
-

IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES FROM FIT BOOKINGS

What changes with group bookings:

1. No preferred partner perks: Group bookings do not offer preferred partner perks and amenities
 2. Contract required: Most groups require a formal contract with terms
 3. Deposits and attrition: Groups typically require upfront deposits and have attrition clauses
 4. Cut-off dates: Room blocks must be released by a specific date
 5. Commission structure: May differ from FIT rates
-

TYPES OF GROUP BOOKINGS

Hotels

Minimum: 10+ rooms

Common group types:

- Weddings
- Corporate meetings
- Reunions
- Incentive travel

Key terms:

- Run of House (ROH): Group receives room types based on availability
- Room block: Specific number of rooms held for the group
- Attrition: Minimum number of rooms that must be filled (typically 20-30% below block size)
- Cut-off date: Deadline to release unused rooms (typically 30-60 days before arrival)

Cruises

Minimum: 8+ staterooms

Booking types:

- Speculative: Flexible hold, no deposit required initially
- Contracted: Formal commitment with deposit
- Charter: Full or partial ship buyout

Cruise-specific benefits:

- Tour Conductor (TC) Credits: Earned based on group size, typically 1 per 8-10 cabins
- Group Amenity Points (GAP): Can be exchanged for onboard credit, events, amenities

Tours

Minimum: 10+ travelers

Common scenarios:

- Custom group itineraries
- Special interest groups
- Educational travel
- Milestone celebrations

COMMISSION STRUCTURE

Group bookings typically earn commission based on total group revenue. Standard rates:

- Hotels (major chains): 7%
- Hotels (boutique/luxury): 10-12%
- Cruises: ~16%
- Tour operators: 16-18%

— Wholesalers: ~15%

Note: Rates may vary by supplier and group size.

KEY CONTRACT TERMS

Attrition

The minimum number of rooms/cabins the group must fill. Industry standard is 20-30% attrition (meaning the group must fill 70-80% of the block).

Example:

- Block of 50 rooms
- 20% attrition
- Group must fill at least 40 rooms or pay penalty

Cut-off Date

The date by which the group must finalize their room count. Unused rooms are released back to the hotel. Typically 30-60 days before arrival.

Deposit Schedule

Groups usually require deposits at booking and additional payments at intervals before arrival.

Complimentary Rooms

Hotels often provide complimentary rooms based on group size. Standard ratio is 1:40 (one comp room per 40 paid rooms).

GROUP BOOKING PROCESS

1. Initial inquiry: Gather group details (size, dates, budget, purpose)
 2. RFP (Request for Proposal): Submit formal request to suppliers
 3. Review proposals: Compare rates, terms, amenities
 4. Contract negotiation: Work with supplier on terms
 5. Contract signature: Formalize agreement
 6. Deposit payment: Submit initial deposit
 7. Manage rooming list: Collect traveler details and preferences
 8. Cut-off date management: Finalize room count before deadline
 9. Final payment: Submit remaining balance
 10. Pre-arrival support: Coordinate details with supplier
 11. Post-trip follow-up: Gather feedback, handle issues
-

WHEN TO INVOLVE FORA TEAMS

- Booking Platform team: Contract review, supplier negotiations, unusual requests
 - Tour Ops team: Destination-specific guidance (especially Japan, Africa), custom itineraries
-

— Support team: Escalations, client issues during travel

RESOURCES

- Contract templates available in Portal
 - Group booking intake form
 - Supplier contact list for group sales
-

WHAT THIS GUIDE DOESN'T COVER

This guide provides foundational knowledge for group bookings at Fora. For detailed operational guidance on specific scenarios, contract negotiations, or supplier-specific policies, consult with Booking Platform or Tour Ops teams.

ARTICLE 2

Getting Started with Group Bookings

Published: March 14, 2023

Category: Group Bookings > Getting Started

WHAT QUALIFIES AS A GROUP?

Group travel is when you're booking for multiple people traveling together. Here's when bookings qualify for group rates:

Hotels: 8+ rooms

Cruises: 5+ cabins

Tours: 10+ travelers

Once you reach these minimums, you'll work with the supplier's group sales team instead of booking individual reservations.

WHY BOOK GROUPS?

For you:

- Higher commission on total group value
- Easier to manage one contract vs. many individual bookings
- Build expertise in a lucrative niche

For clients:

- Better rates
 - Rooms/cabins together
 - Special amenities
 - Dedicated support
-

TYPES OF GROUPS

Leisure Groups

- Weddings
- Family reunions
- Milestone birthdays
- Travel clubs

Corporate Groups

- Meetings and conferences
 - Incentive trips
 - Team retreats
-

BASIC GROUP PROCESS

1. Inquiry: Client reaches out about group travel
 2. Gather details: Size, dates, budget, purpose
 3. Request quotes: Contact suppliers for group proposals
 4. Present options: Review with client
 5. Contract: Sign agreement with selected supplier
 6. Deposit: Submit initial payment
 7. Manage bookings: Collect traveler info and preferences
 8. Finalize: Submit rooming list by cut-off date
 9. Support: Coordinate details before and during travel
-

KEY TERMS TO KNOW

Room Block: Number of rooms reserved for your group

Attrition: Minimum rooms you must fill (typically 15-20% below block size)

Cut-off Date: Deadline to release unused rooms

Run of House: Hotel assigns room types based on availability

Rooming List: Document with traveler names, room preferences, special requests

GETTING STARTED TIPS

1. Start small: Begin with groups of 8-15 people
 2. Use templates: Fora provides group intake forms and contract templates
 3. Build relationships: Connect with hotel and cruise line group sales teams
 4. Set expectations: Be clear with clients about deadlines and deposits
-

COMMON MISTAKES TO AVOID

- Not reading the contract carefully
 - Missing cut-off dates
 - Underestimating group size
 - Forgetting to factor in attrition risk
 - Not explaining cancellation policies to clients
-

WHEN TO ESCALATE

Reach out to Booking Platform team for:

- Groups over 50 rooms/cabins
 - Complex contract terms
 - Multi-property groups
-

— International destinations you're unfamiliar with

RESOURCES

- Group intake form: Available in Portal
 - Contract templates: Available in Portal
 - Supplier group contacts: Available in Portal
-

NEXT STEPS

Ready to dive deeper? Check out these articles:

- Understanding Hotel Group Contracts
- Cruise Group Booking Types
- Commission Structures for Group Travel
- Negotiating Group Terms

ARTICLE 3

Understanding Hotel Group Contracts

Published: January 8, 2026

Category: Group Bookings > Hotels

OVERVIEW

When booking 10+ hotel rooms, you'll typically work with the hotel's group sales team to negotiate a contract. This guide covers the key terms you'll encounter and what to look for during contract review.

ESSENTIAL CONTRACT TERMS

Run of House (ROH)

The hotel assigns room types based on availability at check-in. Your group doesn't get to choose specific room categories, but the hotel ensures appropriate accommodations.

When to accept ROH:

- Flexible group with mixed preferences
- Budget-conscious clients
- Lower rates offered in exchange

When to negotiate specific room types:

- Wedding blocks (consistency matters)
- VIP/executive groups
- Groups with accessibility needs

Attrition Clause

The minimum percentage of your room block that must be filled. If the group doesn't meet this threshold, you may owe payment for unfilled rooms.

Standard attrition: 20-30% (meaning group must fill 70-80% of block)

Example:

- 40-room block
- 25% attrition
- Group must fill at least 30 rooms
- If only 28 rooms fill, client pays for 2 additional rooms

Negotiation tip: Higher attrition protects the client but may result in higher rates. Lower attrition gets better pricing but increases risk.

Cut-off Date

The deadline to finalize your rooming list and release unused rooms back to the hotel. Typically 30-60 days before arrival.

After cut-off:

- Unused rooms are released
- Group is charged for rooms up to attrition minimum
- Hotel can resell released inventory

Pro tip: Set internal cut-off 7-10 days before hotel deadline to give yourself buffer.

Deposit Schedule

Most hotel group contracts require:

1. Initial deposit: 10-25% at contract signing
2. Second deposit: 30-60 days before arrival
3. Final payment: At cut-off date or 14-30 days before arrival

Deposit amounts and timing are negotiable based on group size and hotel policy.

Complimentary Rooms

Hotels provide free rooms based on group size. Standard ratio: 1:40 (one comp room per 40 paid rooms).

Example:

- 80 paid rooms = 2 comp rooms
- 45 paid rooms = 1 comp room
- 35 paid rooms = 0 comp rooms

Comp rooms can be used for group organizer, tour manager, or sold to reduce client costs.

Sliding Scale Cancellation Policy

Cancellation penalties increase as arrival date approaches.

Typical structure:

- 90+ days out: Full refund minus deposit
- 60-89 days: 25% penalty
- 30-59 days: 50% penalty
- 0-29 days: 100% penalty (full payment due)

Always review cancellation terms carefully and explain them clearly to clients.

NEGOTIABLE ITEMS

What you can typically negotiate:

Rates:

- Base room rate
- Discounts for larger groups
- Shoulder date flexibility (slightly different dates for better rates)

Amenities:

- Complimentary breakfast

- Welcome reception
- Room upgrades
- Late checkout
- Resort fee waivers

Terms:

- Attrition percentage
- Cut-off date extension
- Deposit schedule adjustments
- Flexible cancellation terms

Meeting Space:

- Complimentary meeting rooms
 - AV equipment
 - Wi-Fi access
-

WHAT'S USUALLY NON-NEGOTIABLE

- Service charges and taxes
 - Parking fees (sometimes)
 - Resort fees at resort properties
 - Minimum length of stay during peak periods
-

CONTRACT REVIEW CHECKLIST

Before signing, verify:

- ☐ Room block size matches your needs
 - ☐ Rates are competitive and locked in
 - ☐ Attrition clause is reasonable (20-30% range)
 - ☐ Cut-off date gives adequate time
 - ☐ Deposit schedule is manageable for client
 - ☐ Cancellation policy is clear
 - ☐ Complimentary room ratio is included (1:40)
 - ☐ Any promised amenities are in writing
 - ☐ Force majeure clause protects against unforeseen events
 - ☐ Walking policy is defined (what happens if hotel oversells)
-

RED FLAGS

Watch out for:

- Attrition below 15% or above 35%: Too risky or too expensive
 - Cut-off date less than 30 days: Not enough time to fill block
-

- No force majeure clause: Group at risk if event cancelled for legitimate reasons
 - Unclear walking policy: What if hotel can't accommodate your group?
 - Service charges not itemized: Hidden costs can surprise clients
-

WHEN TO ESCALATE TO BOOKING PLATFORM

Reach out to BP team for:

- Unfavorable contract terms you can't negotiate
 - Multi-property or multi-destination groups
 - Groups over 100 rooms
 - International group bookings
 - Complex F&B minimums or meeting space needs
 - Legal questions about contract language
-

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

- Contract templates: Available in Fora Portal
- Group intake form: Collect client requirements upfront

ARTICLE 4

Attrition Clauses: Best Practices

Published: April 19, 2023

Category: Group Bookings > Hotel Contracts

WHAT IS ATTRITION?

Attrition is the minimum percentage of your room block that must be filled. If your group doesn't meet this threshold, you (or your client) pay penalties for the shortfall.

HOW ATTRITION WORKS

Example:

- You book a block of 30 rooms
 - Contract has 15% attrition
 - You must fill at least 26 rooms ($30 - 15\% = 26$ rooms minimum)
 - If you only fill 24 rooms, you owe payment for 2 additional rooms
-

STANDARD ATTRITION RATES

Industry standard: 15-20% attrition

Most hotels will offer attrition in this range. The lower the attrition percentage, the more rooms you must fill.

What different attrition rates mean:

- 10% attrition = must fill 90% of block (higher risk)
 - 15% attrition = must fill 85% of block (recommended)
 - 20% attrition = must fill 80% of block (more conservative)
 - 25% attrition = must fill 75% of block (lower risk, but may cost more)
-

RECOMMENDED ATTRITION BY GROUP TYPE

Weddings

Recommended: 15% attrition

Weddings usually have firm headcounts. Guest lists are finalized months in advance, and attendance is predictable.

Corporate Groups

Recommended: 15-18% attrition

Corporate groups typically have confirmed attendees, but last-minute changes can happen (business needs, schedule conflicts).

Reunions and Social Groups

Recommended: 18-20% attrition

Social groups have more uncertainty. People may drop out closer to the event date.

Incentive Groups

Recommended: 12-15% attrition

Incentive travel groups are usually fully funded by the company, so attendance is high.

Conferences

Recommended: 15-18% attrition

Conferences depend on registration success. Build in some buffer.

NEGOTIATING ATTRITION

Push for lower attrition (higher fill requirement) when:

- You're confident about group size
- Group has high commitment (deposits already collected)
- Peak season (hotel wants the business locked in)

Lower attrition = Better rates

Hotels offer lower pricing when you take on more risk.

Push for higher attrition (lower fill requirement) when:

- Group size is uncertain
- Event is far out (12+ months)
- Client hasn't collected deposits yet
- Shoulder season or low demand period

Higher attrition = More protection, but may cost more

RED FLAGS

Attrition below 10%: Too risky. Pushes all risk onto you. Avoid unless you're 100% certain about attendance.

Attrition above 30%: Hotel is protecting themselves too much. You should be able to negotiate better terms.

No attrition clause: Rare, but some courtesy blocks don't have attrition. This means you can walk away penalty-free if the group doesn't fill.

CALCULATING ATTRITION RISK

Before accepting an attrition clause, calculate your worst-case scenario:

Example:

- 40-room block
- Room rate: $250/night

- 3-night stay
- 15% attrition (must fill 34 rooms)

Worst case: Only 30 rooms fill

- Shortfall: 4 rooms
- Penalty: 4 rooms × $250 × 3 nights = $3,000

Is your client (or you) willing to risk $3,000? If not, negotiate higher attrition.

ATTRITION AND CUT-OFF DATES

Attrition is typically calculated at the cut-off date, not at check-in.

Important: If your group hasn't reached the minimum by cut-off, you owe payment for the shortfall—even if the hotel re-sells those rooms.

Some contracts allow you to adjust your block size down before cut-off without penalty. Always check this.

PROTECTING YOURSELF

1. Collect deposits from travelers early

Don't commit to a group block until you have confirmed interest and deposits from enough travelers to meet attrition.

2. Set an internal cut-off earlier than hotel cut-off

If the hotel cut-off is 45 days out, set your client deadline at 55-60 days. This gives you time to adjust.

3. Negotiate sliding attrition

Some hotels will agree to adjust attrition based on how far out the event is:

- 12 months out: 20% attrition
- 6 months out: 15% attrition
- 3 months out: 10% attrition

This protects you early while locking in lower rates closer to the event.

4. Get attrition terms in writing

Make sure the contract clearly states:

- Attrition percentage
- How attrition is calculated (rooms? room nights? revenue?)
- When attrition is assessed (cut-off date? check-in?)
- Penalty structure

WHAT HAPPENS IF YOU DON'T MEET ATTRITION?

Scenario 1: You pay for unfilled rooms

Most common. You (or the client) pay the contracted rate for rooms that didn't fill.

Scenario 2: Attrition based on revenue, not rooms

Some contracts calculate attrition on total revenue. If your group upgrades to suites, you might meet revenue attrition even with fewer rooms.

Scenario 3: Hotel resells rooms and waives penalty

Rare, but some contracts allow this. If the hotel re-sells your released rooms, they may waive the penalty. Don't count on this.

COMMUNICATING ATTRITION TO CLIENTS

Always explain attrition clearly to clients:

> "We've secured a block of 30 rooms with 15% attrition. This means we need to fill at least 26 rooms by [cut-off date]. If we don't reach 26 rooms, there will be a penalty of $[X] per unfilled room. Let's set a goal of 28 rooms to give ourselves a buffer."

Transparency builds trust and ensures clients understand their responsibility.

COMMON QUESTIONS

Can I reduce my room block before cut-off?

Sometimes. Many contracts allow a one-time reduction (often 10-20% of original block) without penalty if done 60-90 days before arrival.

What if my group grows beyond the block size?

Hotels usually accommodate overflow at the group rate (subject to availability). Get this in writing.

Does attrition apply to comp rooms?

Usually no. Complimentary rooms typically don't count toward attrition calculations.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Aim for 15% attrition as a starting point for most groups
 - Lower attrition = better rates, but higher risk
 - Always calculate worst-case penalty before signing
 - Collect traveler deposits early to reduce your risk
 - Communicate attrition clearly to clients
-

RESOURCES

- Contract template with attrition clause examples: Portal
- Booking Platform team for complex negotiations

ARTICLE 5

Group Booking Minimums by Supplier Type

Published: November 22, 2025

Category: Group Bookings > Getting Started

OVERVIEW

Not all travel qualifies as a "group booking." Each supplier type has minimum thresholds that determine when group rates and contracts apply. This guide breaks down what counts as a group across different travel categories.

HOTELS

Minimum: 10+ rooms per night

This is the industry standard across most hotel brands and properties.

Examples:

- Wedding with 12 hotel rooms = Group
- Family reunion with 8 rooms = Not a group (book as FIT)
- Corporate retreat with 25 rooms = Group

Important notes:

- 10 rooms must be needed on the same night (peak night)
- Multi-night stays: Group minimum applies to peak occupancy night
- Some boutique properties may accept groups at 8+ rooms, but 10 is standard

Major chain minimums:

- Marriott: 10 rooms
 - Hilton: 10 rooms
 - Hyatt: 10 rooms
 - IHC: 10 rooms
 - Four Seasons: 10 rooms
 - Most independents: 10 rooms
-

CRUISES

Minimum: 8+ staterooms (cabins)

Cruise lines measure groups by staterooms/cabins, not passengers.

Examples:

- 8 cabins with 16 passengers = Group
- 6 cabins with 24 passengers (families of 4) = Not a group
- 10 cabins = Group

Important notes:

- Some cruise lines use 8 staterooms, others use 10
- River cruises often have lower minimums (5-6 cabins)
- Luxury lines may have different thresholds

Common minimums by line type:

- Mass market (Carnival, Royal Caribbean, NCL): 8 staterooms
 - Premium (Celebrity, Princess, Holland America): 8 staterooms
 - Luxury (Regent, Oceania, Silversea): 5-8 staterooms
 - River cruises: 5-6 staterooms
-

TOURS

Minimum: 10+ travelers

Tour operators and wholesalers typically require 10 travelers minimum for group pricing.

Examples:

- 12 travelers on custom Italy trip = Group
- 8 travelers on African safari = Not a group (but ask—some operators are flexible)
- 15 travelers on group tour = Group

Important notes:

- Some tour operators offer group rates starting at 8 travelers
 - Custom/private tours may have different minimums
 - Destination and season affect minimums
-

OTHER TRAVEL TYPES

DMCs (Destination Management Companies)

Typical minimum: 10-15 travelers

DMCs provide on-ground services (transfers, guides, activities). Minimums vary by destination and services requested.

All-Inclusive Resorts

Minimum: Often 10+ rooms (same as hotels)

Some all-inclusive brands offer group coordinators or perks starting at 8 rooms.

Villas

Minimum: No standard group minimum

Villa bookings are usually priced per property, not per room. Large villa bookings (multiple villas for one group) may qualify for group discounts.

Group Air

Minimum: Typically 10+ passengers

Airlines offer group rates starting around 10 passengers on the same flight. Group air has its own rules and contracts.

WHAT HAPPENS BELOW MINIMUMS?

If your client doesn't meet group minimums:

Book as individual (FIT) reservations:

- Use standard booking processes
- Each room/cabin booked separately
- No group contract
- May still request room blocks without formal contract (courtesy hold)

Courtesy holds:

- Some hotels offer informal room blocks below 10 rooms
 - No contract required
 - Holds are not guaranteed
 - Useful for small weddings (5-8 rooms)
-

COMBINATION SCENARIOS

Multi-property groups:

If your group is splitting across multiple hotels, each property is evaluated separately.

Example:

- 6 rooms at Hotel A
- 5 rooms at Hotel B
- Neither property reaches 10-room minimum
- Book as FIT at both

Multi-night varying occupancy:

Group minimum applies to peak night.

Example:

- Friday: 12 rooms (peak)
 - Saturday: 8 rooms
 - Sunday: 6 rooms
 - This qualifies as a group (12 rooms on peak night)
-

WHY MINIMUMS MATTER

Below minimum:

- No group contract
- No group coordinator/support
- No TC credits or GAP points (cruises)
- No complimentary rooms
- Individual cancellation policies apply

At or above minimum:

- Group contract with negotiated terms
- Dedicated group coordinator
- Potential for amenities and upgrades
- Group cancellation and attrition terms
- Commission on full group

EDGE CASES AND EXCEPTIONS

Ask the supplier when:

- Group is 1-2 rooms/cabins below minimum
- High-value group (luxury, extended stay)
- Repeat client or loyal advisor
- Shoulder season or low-demand period

Some suppliers will make exceptions, especially if the group has potential for growth or represents significant revenue.

QUICK REFERENCE

| Supplier Type | Minimum | Unit |

|-----|-----|-----|

| Hotels | 10+ | Rooms |

| Cruises | 8+ | Staterooms |

| Tours | 10+ | Travelers |

| DMCs | 10-15 | Travelers |

| All-Inclusives | 10+ | Rooms |

| Group Air | 10+ | Passengers |

RESOURCES

- Group intake form: Collect details before reaching out to suppliers
- Supplier group contacts: Available in Fora Portal

ARTICLE 6

Group Payment Collection Process

Published: August 12, 2024

Category: Group Bookings > Operations

OVERVIEW

Managing payments for group bookings requires coordination between you, your client (the group organizer), and individual travelers. This guide covers best practices for collecting and processing group payments.

PAYMENT STRUCTURE

Most group bookings follow a tiered payment schedule:

Hotels

Initial deposit: 20-30% at contract signing

Second payment: 60 days before arrival

Final payment: 30 days before arrival

Cruises

Initial deposit: $250-500 per person at booking

Final payment: 120 days before sailing (for most sailings over 6 nights)

Shorter cruises may have different timelines:

- 2-5 night cruises: 75 days before sailing
- 6+ night cruises: 120 days before sailing

Tours

Initial deposit: 25-30% at booking

Second payment: 90 days before departure

Final payment: 60 days before departure

TWO COLLECTION MODELS

Model 1: Advisor Collects from Travelers

You collect payments directly from each traveler and submit group payments to the supplier.

Pros:

- Full control over payment timing
- Direct relationship with travelers
- Can track who has/hasn't paid

Cons:

- Time-intensive
- You're responsible if travelers don't pay
- Need merchant account for credit card processing

Best for: Small groups (10-20 travelers), advisors with established payment processing

Model 2: Group Organizer Collects Payments

The group organizer (client) collects money from travelers and sends you lump sum payments.

Pros:

- Less administrative work for you
- Group organizer is responsible for collecting
- Only deal with one point of contact

Cons:

- Less visibility into who has paid
- Dependent on organizer's follow-through
- May be delays if organizer is slow to collect

Best for: Larger groups, corporate groups, weddings where couple handles guests

RECOMMENDED TIMELINE (HOTELS)

12+ months before event:

- Contract signed
- Initial deposit due (20-30%)

6 months before:

- Begin collecting traveler deposits
- Rooming list takes shape

90 days before:

- Second deposit due to hotel (if applicable)

60 days before:

- Push for final traveler commitments
- Cut-off date approaching

45 days before:

- Cut-off date (release unused rooms)
- Final payment due to hotel

30 days before:

- Finalize rooming list
 - Submit special requests
-

RECOMMENDED TIMELINE (CRUISES)

12+ months before sailing:

- Book group (contracted or spec)
- Collect initial deposits ($250-500/person)

6 months before:

- Promote sailing
- Continue collecting bookings

120 days before (final payment):

- Collect final payments from travelers
- Submit to cruise line

90 days before:

- Finalize cabin assignments
- Submit dietary restrictions, special requests

60 days before:

- Work with group coordinator on TC Credits and GAP Points
-

PAYMENT METHODS

Credit Cards

Pros: Instant payment, secure, traveler protection

Cons: Processing fees (2-3%), may hit credit limits on large groups

Best for: Individual traveler payments

ACH/Bank Transfer

Pros: Lower fees, good for large payments

Cons: Slower processing (3-5 days), requires bank account info

Best for: Group organizer lump sum payments, final payments

Checks

Pros: No processing fees

Cons: Slow, risk of bounced checks, outdated

Best for: Older clients, smaller deposits

Wire Transfer

Pros: Fast, secure, good for international

Cons: High fees ($25-50), requires bank info

Best for: International groups, very large payments

HANDLING LATE PAYMENTS

Set internal deadlines earlier than supplier deadlines

If hotel wants final payment 30 days out, tell clients it's due 40 days out. This gives you buffer.

Send reminder emails at key milestones:

- 60 days before: "Second payment due in 2 weeks"
- 45 days before: "Final payment due soon"
- 35 days before: "Final reminder—payment due in 5 days"

Have a plan for non-payment:

- Can you cover shortfall temporarily?
 - Will you charge late fees?
 - At what point do you cancel the traveler's reservation?
-

REFUND AND CANCELLATION POLICIES

Hotels

Cancellation penalties vary by contract. Typical structure:

- 90+ days out: Refund minus deposit
- 60-90 days: 50% penalty
- 30-60 days: 75% penalty
- 0-30 days: No refund

Always communicate cancellation terms clearly when collecting payments.

Cruises

Cruise lines have specific cancellation schedules based on sailing length and departure date. Generally:

- 120+ days out: Refund minus deposit ($100-250/person)
- 90-119 days: 50% penalty
- 60-89 days: 75% penalty
- 0-59 days: 100% penalty (no refund)

Important: Cruise cancellation policies are stricter than hotel policies.

MANAGING GROUP FINANCES

Use a spreadsheet to track:

- Traveler names
- Payment amounts and dates
- Balance owed
- Cancellation requests

Separate business and personal finances:

- Use a dedicated business account for group payments
- Don't mingle group funds with personal money

Track supplier payment deadlines:

- Set reminders for deposit and final payment dates
 - Don't miss deadlines (penalties can apply)
-

DEPOSITS VS. FINAL PAYMENTS

Deposits:

- Typically non-refundable or partially refundable
- Lock in rates and hold inventory
- Usually 20-30% of total

Final payments:

- Due 30-120 days before travel (depending on supplier)
- Remaining balance after deposits
- Often non-refundable once submitted

Make sure travelers understand the difference. Many assume deposits are fully refundable.

PAYMENT DISPUTES

What to do if a traveler disputes a charge:

1. Review your payment terms (did you communicate policies clearly?)
2. Check the supplier's cancellation policy
3. Try to work out a compromise (credit toward future travel?)
4. Escalate to Booking Platform team if needed

Protect yourself:

- Send written confirmation of all payments
 - Keep records of cancellation policy acknowledgments
 - Use contracts for larger groups
-

TOOLS TO STREAMLINE PAYMENTS

Payment processing platforms:

- Stripe
- PayPal
- Square

Group travel payment platforms:

- WeTravel
- Travefy

- TravelJoy

These platforms help you:

- Collect payments online
 - Send automated reminders
 - Track who has/hasn't paid
 - Handle refunds
-

RED FLAGS

Watch out for:

- Group organizer who's slow to collect payments (puts you at risk)
- Travelers asking to pay "later" repeatedly
- Last-minute cancellations after final payment deadline
- Requests to bypass payment terms

If payments aren't coming in on schedule, escalate with the group organizer early.

WHEN TO ESCALATE TO BOOKING PLATFORM

Contact BP team for:

- Complex payment disputes
 - International payment questions
 - Large group payments (50+ travelers)
 - Supplier payment issues
-

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Always set internal deadlines earlier than supplier deadlines
 - Choose collection model based on group size and organizer reliability
 - Track payments carefully with spreadsheets or tools
 - Communicate cancellation policies clearly upfront
 - Use secure payment methods (credit cards, ACH)
-

RESOURCES

- Payment tracking template: Available in Portal
- Traveler payment agreement template: Available in Portal

ARTICLE 7

Cruise Group Booking Types Explained

Published: December 18, 2025

Category: Group Bookings > Cruises

OVERVIEW

Cruise group bookings work differently than hotel groups. There are three main booking types, each with different requirements, flexibility, and benefits. Understanding when to use each type is key to serving your clients effectively.

GROUP MINIMUMS

Minimum for cruise groups: 8+ staterooms

Group sizes:

- Small groups: 8-15 staterooms
- Medium groups: 15-50 staterooms
- Large groups: 50-250+ staterooms
- Buyouts/Charters: Full or partial ship

THREE BOOKING TYPES

1. Speculative Hold (Spec)

A non-committal hold on cabins while you gauge interest from your group.

Key features:

- No initial deposit required
- Flexible hold on inventory
- Can release cabins without penalty
- Recall date: Cruise line can recall cabins with notice (typically 30-90 days before sailing)

Best for:

- Testing interest in a sailing
- Groups still forming
- Uncertain final headcount
- New advisors building group travel business

How it works:

1. Request spec hold from cruise line group desk
2. Promote sailing to your client base
3. As individuals commit, book them into the block
4. Before recall date, either convert to contracted or release

Important: Spec holds give cruise line flexibility to recall inventory if the ship starts filling. Don't wait too long to convert.

2. Contracted Group

A formal commitment with deposit and minimum cabin requirements.

Key features:

- Deposit required (typically 10-20% of total)
- Minimum cabin commitment (varies by cruise line)
- Attrition clause (similar to hotel groups)
- Better pricing and amenities than spec
- Locked-in rates

Best for:

- Committed groups with confirmed travelers
- Larger groups (15+ cabins)
- Peak sailing dates
- Groups wanting best rates and perks

How it works:

1. Sign group contract with cruise line
2. Submit initial deposit
3. Promote sailing and collect traveler deposits
4. Meet minimum cabin requirement by cut-off date
5. Pay for unfilled cabins if below attrition threshold

Example:

- Contract for 20 cabins
- 20% attrition (must fill 16 cabins)
- If only 14 cabins fill, group pays for 2 additional cabins

3. Charter (Full or Partial)

Exclusive use of an entire ship or large section.

Key features:

- Buyout of ship or significant portion (100+ cabins)
- Custom itineraries possible
- Exclusive events and branding
- Significant upfront commitment
- Highest level of customization

Best for:

- Large corporate incentive groups
- Destination weddings with 100+ guests

- Conferences or conventions
- Ultra-luxury private experiences

How it works:

1. Submit charter request to cruise line
2. Negotiate custom terms (itinerary, pricing, F&B, entertainment)
3. Substantial deposit (often 25%+ of total)
4. Work with cruise line event planning team
5. Coordinate all logistics directly

CHOOSING THE RIGHT BOOKING TYPE

| Scenario | Recommended Type |

|-----|-----|

| Testing interest for a future sailing | Speculative |

| 8-12 cabins, casual group | Speculative |

| 15+ cabins, committed travelers | Contracted |

| Peak season sailing (limited inventory) | Contracted |

| Want best pricing and amenities | Contracted |

| 100+ cabins, exclusive experience | Charter |

| Custom itinerary needed | Charter |

CONVERTING FROM SPEC TO CONTRACTED

Many groups start as spec and convert to contracted once interest is confirmed.

When to convert:

- Group size justifies better contracted rates
- Recall date approaching
- You've reached 60-70% of target cabin count
- Sailing is filling and you want to lock inventory

Process:

1. Contact cruise line group desk
2. Negotiate contracted terms
3. Submit deposit
4. Existing spec bookings transfer to contracted block

GROUP BENEFITS: TC CREDITS AND GAP POINTS

Regardless of booking type, groups earn special perks:

Tour Conductor (TC) Credits:

- Earned at rate of approximately 1 TC credit per 8-10 cabins (varies by cruise line)
- Can be redeemed for: free cabin for group leader, onboard events, or additional commission

Group Amenity Points (GAP):

- Points awarded based on group size
- Redeemable for: onboard credit, welcome gifts, happy hours, specialty dining, shore excursions, Wi-Fi packages

TC Credits and GAP details vary by cruise line. Check with each line's group desk for specifics.

IMPORTANT NOTES

Cabins vs. Berths:

- Cruise lines measure groups in staterooms/cabins, not passengers
- A cabin with 2 passengers = 1 cabin toward group minimum
- A cabin with 4 passengers = still 1 cabin (not 2)

Recall Dates:

- Spec holds have recall dates when cruise line can take back inventory
- Contracted groups also have final payment and cut-off dates
- Missing these dates can result in lost inventory or penalties

Individual Names:

- Spec bookings: Log individually as travelers commit
 - Contracted: May hold cabins without names initially, add names before final payment
-

WHEN TO ESCALATE

Contact Booking Platform team for:

- Charter requests
 - Multi-ship or back-to-back sailing groups
 - Groups over 50 cabins
 - Custom itinerary requests
 - Contract negotiation support
 - Issues with cruise line group desks
-

RESOURCES

- Cruise line group desk contacts: Available in Fora Portal
- Group sales minimum requirements by cruise line

ARTICLE 8

TC Credits and GAP Points: What Advisors Need to Know

Published: October 15, 2025

Category: Group Bookings > Cruises

OVERVIEW

Cruise groups earn special perks beyond standard commission: Tour Conductor (TC) Credits and Group Amenity Points (GAP). Understanding how these work helps you maximize value for your clients and yourself.

TOUR CONDUCTOR (TC) CREDITS

What are TC Credits?

TC Credits are earned based on your group size. Think of them as rewards from the cruise line for bringing group business.

How many do you earn?

Earning rate: Approximately 1 TC credit per 8-10 cabins booked

The exact rate varies by cruise line:

- Mass market lines (Carnival, Royal Caribbean, NCL): 1 per 8 cabins
- Premium lines (Celebrity, Princess): 1 per 8-10 cabins
- Luxury lines (Regent, Oceania, Silversea): 1 per 5-8 cabins

Example:

- 20-cabin group on Royal Caribbean = 2-3 TC credits
- 40-cabin group on Celebrity = 4-5 TC credits

How can TC Credits be used?

TC Credits can be redeemed for:

1. Free cabin for group leader/tour conductor
 - Most common use
 - Group organizer travels free
2. Onboard events or amenities
 - Private cocktail party
 - Specialty dining for the group
 - Shore excursions
 - Onboard credit distributed to travelers
3. Additional commission
 - Convert TC credit to extra advisor commission
 - Amount varies by cruise line

Important notes:

- TC Credits must be used on the same sailing (cannot be banked for future cruises)
 - One TC credit typically equals one free inside cabin; upgrades available for additional cost
 - Credits are awarded when group meets minimum cabin threshold
 - Advisor decides how to allocate TC credits
-

GROUP AMENITY POINTS (GAP)What are GAP Points?

GAP Points are another cruise line perk awarded to groups. These points can be exchanged for various amenities to enhance the group experience.

How many do you earn?

GAP Points are awarded based on total cabins booked. The formula varies by cruise line.

Typical structure:

- 10 cabins = 50 GAP points
- 20 cabins = 120 GAP points
- 40 cabins = 300 GAP points

Larger groups earn points at a better rate (economies of scale).

What can GAP Points be redeemed for?

Onboard credit (OBC):

- Applied to travelers' shipboard accounts
- Can be split among group or given to specific cabins

Welcome amenities:

- Champagne, chocolate-covered strawberries, or welcome gifts in cabins

Group events:

- Happy hours
- Private parties
- Themed events

Wi-Fi packages:

- Internet access for group members

Specialty dining:

- Group dinners at specialty restaurants

Shore excursions:

- Discounted or complimentary group excursions

Beverage packages or spa services:

- Some cruise lines allow GAP redemption for these

How to use GAP Points:

Work with the cruise line's group coordinator to select amenities. Redemption happens before sailing (typically 30-60 days out).

TC CREDITS VS. GAP POINTS: WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

Feature	TC Credits	GAP Points
Earned based on	Cabins booked	Cabins booked
Redemption	Free cabin, commission, or event	Amenities, OBC, events
Flexibility	Limited redemption options	Many redemption options
Who benefits	Group leader or advisor	Entire group
Typical use	Free cabin for organizer	OBC or welcome gifts for travelers

STRATEGIC USE OF TC CREDITS AND GAP POINTS

Scenario 1: Affinity Group (Travel Club)

- TC Credits: Use for free cabin for club president
- GAP Points: Distribute as onboard credit to all members ($50 per cabin)

Scenario 2: Incentive Trip (Corporate)

- TC Credits: Convert to additional commission (company paid for all travel)
- GAP Points: Private cocktail party and specialty dining event

Scenario 3: Family Reunion

- TC Credits: Free cabin for family organizer (grandparents)
- GAP Points: Welcome amenities in all cabins + group shore excursion

Scenario 4: Milestone Celebration (50th Birthday)

- TC Credits: Free cabin for birthday honoree
- GAP Points: Private party, OBC for guests, champagne in cabins

WHEN ARE TC CREDITS AND GAP POINTS AWARDED?

- Contracted groups: Awarded once group meets minimum cabin commitment
- Speculative groups: Awarded as cabins are booked (may increase as group grows)
- Final calculation: Determined at final payment (90 days before sailing)

If your group shrinks below minimum after final payment, TC Credits and GAP may be reduced.

WORKING WITH CRUISE LINE GROUP COORDINATORS

Your group coordinator will help you:

- Calculate TC Credits and GAP Points
- Choose redemption options
- Coordinate onboard events
- Manage changes to group size

Contact your coordinator 60-90 days before sailing to finalize TC and GAP usage.

COMMON QUESTIONS

Can I split TC Credits?

No. Each TC credit equals one cabin. You cannot split a credit across multiple cabins.

Can I save GAP Points for another cruise?

No. TC Credits and GAP Points must be used on the sailing for which they were earned.

What if my group grows after I've redeemed GAP Points?

Contact your group coordinator. Additional points may be awarded, and you can adjust redemptions.

Do river cruises offer TC Credits and GAP?

Some do, but terms vary widely. Check with each river cruise line.

IMPORTANT REMINDERS

- Always factor TC Credits and GAP into your group value proposition
 - Explain these benefits to clients when pitching group travel
 - Work closely with cruise line group coordinators to maximize value
 - Redemption deadlines vary by cruise line—don't miss them
-

RESOURCES

- Cruise line group desk contacts: Available in Fora Portal
- Group coordinator assignment: Provided when group is contracted

ARTICLE 9

Commission Structures for Group Travel

Published: June 8, 2023

Category: Group Bookings > Commissions

OVERVIEW

Group bookings earn commission based on the total value of the group. Understanding commission structures helps you price appropriately and set client expectations.

HOTEL GROUP COMMISSIONS

Major chains (Marriott, Hilton, Hyatt, IHC): 8-10%

Boutique and luxury hotels: 10-15%

All-inclusive resorts: 10-12%

How hotel commission is calculated:

Commission is typically calculated on:

- Room rate × number of room nights
- Does NOT include: taxes, resort fees, parking, F&B

Example:

- 20 rooms × 3 nights = 60 room nights
- Average rate: $200/night
- Total room revenue: $12,000
- Commission at 10%: $1,200

When is commission paid?

Most hotels pay commission 30-60 days after group checkout.

CRUISE GROUP COMMISSIONS

Standard commission: 15-16%

Luxury cruise lines: 18-20%

River cruises: 15-18%

How cruise commission is calculated:

Commission is calculated on:

- Base fare (per person)
- Port charges and taxes (sometimes included, sometimes not—check with cruise line)
- Does NOT include: Gratuities, shore excursions, specialty dining, beverages

Example:

- 20 cabins × 2 passengers = 40 passengers
- Average fare: $2,000/person
- Total cruise revenue: $80,000
- Commission at 16%: $12,800

Tiered commission structures:

Some cruise lines offer higher commission for larger groups:

- 8-15 cabins: 16%
- 16-30 cabins: 17%
- 31+ cabins: 18%

When is commission paid?

Cruise lines typically pay commission after final payment (90 days before sailing) or after sailing, depending on the line.

TOUR OPERATOR COMMISSIONS

Standard tour operators: 15-18%

Luxury/custom tours: 18-20%

Adventure tour operators: 10-15%

Commission is calculated on the land package price (accommodations, transportation, activities). Flights are usually booked separately.

DMC (DESTINATION MANAGEMENT COMPANY) COMMISSIONS

Typical commission: 10-15%

DMCs provide on-ground services. Commission varies based on:

- Destination
 - Services provided
 - Volume of business
-

WHOLESALE COMMISSIONS

Typical commission: 10-12%

Wholesalers package hotels + tours + transfers. Commission is lower because they're aggregating services.

GROUP AIR COMMISSIONS

Group air bookings typically earn minimal commission from airlines (if any). Instead:

- Charge a service fee to the client
-

-
- Work with consolidators who offer net rates + markup

Most advisors charge $50-100 per ticket for group air coordination.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS AND OVERRIDES

Many suppliers offer bonus commission for high-performing advisors:

Virtuoso groups: May earn additional commission or amenities

Preferred suppliers: Often offer 1-2% commission override

Volume bonuses: Book 100+ rooms/year with a chain → earn extra commission

COMMISSION PAYMENT TIMELINES

| Supplier Type | Typical Payment Timing |

|-----|-----|

| Hotels | 30-60 days after checkout |

| Cruises | 90 days pre-sailing or post-sailing |

| Tour operators | 30-45 days after trip start |

| DMCs | 30 days after services rendered |

| All-inclusives | 60-90 days after checkout |

PROTECTING YOUR COMMISSION

Always:

- Register the group with the supplier
- Get commission agreement in writing
- Track group bookings in your CRM
- Follow up if payment is late

Watch out for:

- Clients booking direct after you've done the work (send confirmation emails establishing your role)
 - Suppliers claiming group didn't meet minimum (document final numbers)
 - Commission clawbacks if group cancels (understand cancellation commission policies)
-

COMMISSION VS. SERVICE FEES

Some advisors charge clients a service fee on top of commission for:

- Complex multi-destination groups
- Groups requiring significant coordination
- Groups with custom requests

Typical service fees: $50-150 per person or 5-10% of total trip cost

IMPORTANT NOTES

- Commission structures can vary by season and demand
 - Always confirm commission rate before signing group contract
 - Some suppliers pay commission on a net rate (you markup), others on gross rate
 - International groups may have different commission structures
-

WHEN TO ASK FOR HIGHER COMMISSION

You may be able to negotiate higher commission for:

- Very large groups (50+ rooms)
 - Multi-property or multi-year agreements
 - Groups during low season
 - Repeat clients
-

RESOURCES

- Supplier commission schedules: Available in Portal
 - Commission tracking: Log groups in Fora CRM
-

NEED HELP?

Contact Booking Platform team if you have questions about:

- Unusual commission structures
- Delayed commission payments
- Negotiating commission overrides

ARTICLE 10

Working with Tour Operators for Groups

Published: February 22, 2023

Category: Group Bookings > Tours

OVERVIEW

Tour operators and DMCs (Destination Management Companies) are valuable partners for group travel, especially when you need local expertise or pre-packaged itineraries. This guide covers when and how to work with them.

WHAT IS A TOUR OPERATOR?

A tour operator creates and sells packaged travel experiences. They handle:

- Accommodations
- Transportation
- Activities and excursions
- Guides
- Some meals

Tour operators work with multiple suppliers to build complete itineraries. You book the package, and they handle logistics.

WHAT IS A DMC?

A DMC (Destination Management Company) provides on-the-ground services in a specific destination. They offer:

- Airport transfers
- Local guides
- Activity coordination
- Restaurant reservations
- Custom experiences

DMCs are local experts who help you execute itineraries, but they don't usually create full packages like tour operators do.

TOUR OPERATOR VS. DMC: QUICK COMPARISON

Feature	Tour Operator	DMC
Scope	Full packages	On-ground services
Geography	Global or regional	Specific destination
Customization	Limited	Highly customizable

| Cost | Fixed package pricing | A la carte pricing |

| Best for | Larger groups, set itineraries | Custom trips, local support |

WHEN TO USE A TOUR OPERATOR

Best for:

- Groups that want a pre-built itinerary
- First-time group organizers
- Budget-conscious groups (packages can be cost-effective)
- Popular destinations with established tours (Europe, Southeast Asia, etc.)

Examples:

- 15-person group tour of Italy with fixed itinerary
- Educational group trip to Costa Rica
- Multi-generational family trip to Ireland

Pros:

- Simplified planning (package already designed)
- Competitive pricing (economies of scale)
- Experienced tour managers
- Established supplier relationships

Cons:

- Less flexibility
 - Set departure dates
 - May include travelers outside your group
-

WHEN TO USE A DMC

Best for:

- Custom itineraries
- VIP or luxury groups
- Corporate incentive trips
- Groups needing local expertise in complex destinations

Examples:

- Custom Japan itinerary for 12 travelers
- Incentive trip in South Africa with unique activities
- Destination wedding in Mexico with local coordination

Pros:

- Fully customizable
- Local expertise

- High-touch service
- Works with your dates and preferences

Cons:

- More expensive than packaged tours
 - Requires more planning on your part
 - May need to coordinate multiple vendors
-

FINDING THE RIGHT PARTNER

For tour operators:

- Check if they specialize in your destination
- Ask about group minimums (usually 10+ travelers)
- Review sample itineraries
- Verify they're accredited (USTOA, ASTA, etc.)

For DMCs:

- Confirm they operate in your destination
 - Ask for references from other advisors
 - Understand their service area and capabilities
 - Check response time (good DMCs respond quickly)
-

COMMISSION STRUCTURES

Tour operators: 15-18% commission on land packages

DMCs: 10-15% commission on services booked

Commission is usually paid after travel is complete (30-60 days post-trip).

WORKING WITH TOUR OPERATORS: BEST PRACTICES

1. Request group quotes early

Tour operators need lead time (3-6 months minimum for custom requests).

2. Understand what's included

Packages vary. Clarify:

- Accommodations (room types, locations)
- Meals (how many, what's included)
- Transportation (private coach, train, flights)
- Activities (entrance fees, guided tours)
- Gratuities (included or extra)

3. Review cancellation policies

Tour packages often have strict cancellation terms:

- 90+ days: Partial refund
- 60-90 days: 50% penalty
- 30-60 days: 75% penalty
- 0-30 days: No refund

4. Confirm group minimums

Most tour operators require 10+ travelers. If your group is smaller, ask if they can accommodate.

5. Negotiate when possible

Larger groups (20+) may have room to negotiate pricing, upgrades, or included amenities.

WORKING WITH DMCS: BEST PRACTICES

1. Provide detailed briefs

DMCs need to understand:

- Group size and demographics
- Travel dates
- Budget
- Interests and preferences
- Any special requirements

2. Ask for multiple options

Request 2-3 proposals at different price points.

3. Build relationships

Good DMCs become long-term partners. Treat them well, communicate clearly, and they'll prioritize your groups.

4. Confirm services in writing

Everything should be documented: dates, times, services, pricing.

5. Coordinate timing

DMCs work in local time zones. Factor in time differences for communication.

RED FLAGS

Watch out for:

- Tour operators or DMCs with no online presence or reviews
 - Pricing that seems too good to be true
 - Poor communication or slow responses
 - No clear cancellation or refund policies
 - Requests for full payment far in advance
-

COMMON MISTAKES

1. Booking too close to travel dates

Tour operators and DMCs need lead time. Last-minute requests are difficult and expensive.

2. Not reading the fine print

Understand what's included and what costs extra.

3. Assuming all tour operators are the same

Quality varies. Vet partners carefully.

4. Forgetting about visas and entry requirements

Tour operators usually don't handle visas. You're responsible for advising travelers on entry requirements.

GROUP MINIMUMS FOR TOUR OPERATORS

Most tour operators require:

- Minimum: 10 travelers
- Ideal group size: 15-25 travelers
- Large groups: 30+ travelers may qualify for private departures or custom terms

Smaller groups (8-10) may be accommodated but at higher per-person pricing.

PAYMENT TERMS

Tour operators:

- Deposit: 25-30% at booking
- Final payment: 60-90 days before departure

DMCs:

- Deposit: 30-50% at booking
 - Final payment: 30 days before services rendered
-

WHEN TO ESCALATE

Contact Booking Platform or Tour Ops team for:

- Complex multi-destination groups
 - Groups over 30 travelers
 - Issues with tour operator or DMC performance
 - Contract negotiation support
-

RESOURCES

- Preferred tour operator list: Available in Portal
 - DMC contact database: Available in Portal
-

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Use tour operators for pre-packaged, budget-friendly group travel
- Use DMCs for custom, high-touch experiences in specific destinations
- Vet partners carefully and build long-term relationships
- Understand what's included and communicate clearly with clients
- Allow plenty of lead time for group travel planning